Payout plan – Swiss Life Premium PayoutPlan

Would you like to receive regular payouts from your assets to realise your goals and wishes? Is it important to you to have access to your capital at any time, in case you are planning a major acquisition? Do you also want your capital to be professionally managed in order to optimise your potential returns? Swiss Life Premium PayoutPlan enables you to do all of this.

Challenge and solution

Would you like to invest your money longer term and take advantage of earnings opportunities on the capital market? Would you like to make regular withdrawals at the same time? Then Swiss Life Premium PayoutPlan is the right solution for you.

This is how it works

You invest a one-time amount in Swiss Life Premium PayoutPlan. It is placed in a security-oriented and a return-oriented investment and paid out in accordance with your instructions. You determine the payout amount, its frequency and the duration yourself.

- Security-oriented investment: this investment is broadly diversified and stability-oriented with a focus on low fluctuations. The regular payouts are made from the security-oriented investment.
- Return-oriented investment: the investment has a global focus and consists of several equity funds from different providers. It has a longer-term investment horizon and is intended to generate an additional return.

Depending on your personal risk profile, you can choose from two investment strategies, Balanced and Growth. The percentage split between the security-oriented and return-oriented investments depends on which investment strategy you select.

Automatic reallocations

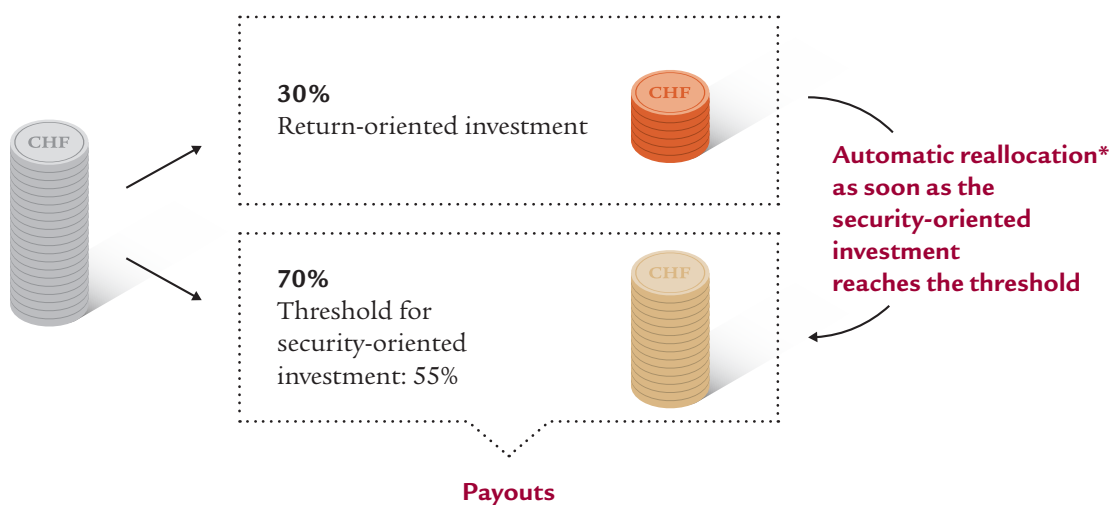

Automatic reallocations are performed between the two investment vehicles.

The payouts are made from the security-oriented investment, since it is subject to lower fluctuations and is to finance the payouts. As a result, the percentage split of the security-oriented investment diminishes over time.

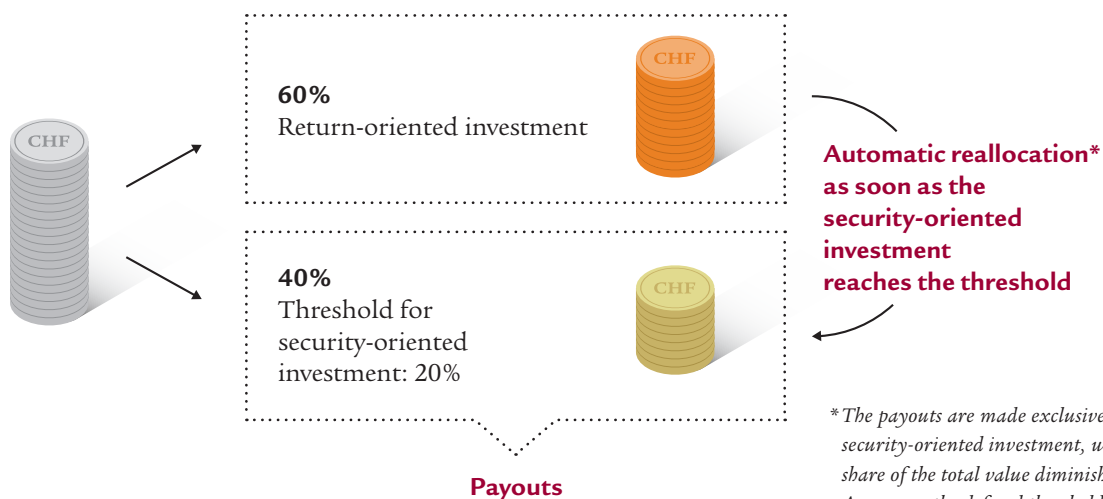

As soon as the security-oriented investment has fallen to a given percentage (threshold), the composition of the fund portfolio is returned to the defined start allocation. An automatic reallocation is performed from the return-oriented to the security-oriented investment, so there is money available for the next payouts. With the remainder of the money you continue to participate directly in the capital market and enjoy attractive potential returns.

As soon as the total value of the fund portfolio is expected to suffice for payouts for a maximum of two years, the total value amount of the fund portfolio is reallocated to the security-oriented investment. This further reduces the value fluctuations towards the end of the term while increasing the stability of the investment.

Initial allocation of investments with the Balanced investment strategy

Initial allocation of investments with the Growth investment strategy

The payouts are made exclusively from the security-oriented investment, which is why their share of the total value diminishes over time. As soon as the defined threshold is reached, an automatic reallocation restores the initial allocation.*

How you benefit

- Optimal mix of stability and return potential: your money is invested in two ways: a security-oriented investment for incremental use and a long-term, return-oriented investment for future payouts.
- Asset management with great investment expertise thanks to the longstanding experience: Swiss Life Wealth Managers selects and manages the first-class fund investments, including proprietary Swiss Life funds, in accordance with clearly defined criteria. In doing so, it draws on over 165 years of experience and investment expertise at Swiss Life.
- The invested capital is fully available at all times: you enjoy total flexibility since you can withdraw the capital, or make additional payments, at any time. You can also determine the amount and frequency of payouts, or defer them, whenever you like.
